BURGLARS AT WORK.

Night-Old Offender Arrested.

A gang of house-breakers went through the northern part of the city, Saturday night, three houses having been entered. At Marion Eaten's, 1466 Capitol avenue, a gold watch and $6 was taken. William Wells and N. M. Atkins were the owners of the other houses visited, the former residing at 1518 North Senate avenue, while the latter lives at 2197 North Illinois street. Mr. Atkins lost a watch, Nothing was secured by the burglars at Mr. Wells's. Robert Ball, who boards at the California rested for being intoxicated yesterday afternoon. Later in the day his room-mate called at the police station, looking for his overcoat. It seems Ball borrowed it with-out the knowledge of his friend. He ad-mitted taking the coat and said he "soaked" it for 50 cents, with which he hought the drinks that were responsible for his drunken condition. Captain Quigley learned that Jesse Dark, who was wanted for stealing an overcoat, a lot of jewelry, a suit of clothes and other articles from a fellow-boarder at 31 Garden street, some time ago, was in town Saturday night, and, in company with two patrolmen, the Captain went to his home and placed him under arrest. Dark was preparing to leave town. He stopped a moment to brush his hair and the officers arrived just in time to catch him. NO RACING YESTERDAY.

The Speedy Horses Held in Check by the Presence of Many Policemen.

There were some very fine driving horses on Meridian street yesterday afternoon, and some lovers of fast horses were driving them, but there were policemen on the street and the fast horses were not allowed to show their speed. The owners drove backward and forward, hoping the policemen would withdraw, but they would not do so, having received instructions to prevent stood boys who waited in vain for the horses to be speeded. Residents of the street looked from their homes to see if there were any racing, and some were probably disappointed at not seeing it, while others were glad to see no Sunday exhibitions of speed. The street was in a fine condition, but that didn't matter, for there was a policeman every few blocks, and they were there to make arrests if necessary. One resident of the street came from his home to talk to the policeman standing on

"I do not object to a little racing," said "Neither do I object," said the policeman, "but I have my orders." "I paid for nearly one hundred feet of pavement, and they can race over my portion all they choose. I understand your orders, however. We put this pavement down for driving purposes, and I wish we could have some first-class driving."

ONLY ONE BODY FOUND

REMAINS OF GREENWALDT BOY STILL IN WHITE RIVER.

The body of Johnny Horehammer, one of the two boys drowned in Barbers' hole, near Haughville, was recovered yesterday afternoon between 2 and 3 o'clock. All Saturday night the Barnabee brothers. George and John, rowed up and down the open water dragging for the bodies, without success. The work was suspended for a few hours after 5 o'clock yesterday morning. About 11 Calvin Petty, an employe of the water works company, in company with George Roberts, joined in the work of fishing for the bodies. A large force of men broke away the ice and opened a channel for several hundred feet below the "death pool." White river is at this point full of snags and rubbish. Considerable difficulty was experienced, as the hooks were constantly getting caught. Roberts was in a boat running the "trot-line," while Petty walked along the shore. Shortly before the body was caught a large floe of ice was cut loose near the First-street bridge. It floated down the river between the boat and the shore, crossing the line. While it was passing Roberts discovered he was dragging something, and began taking in the slack. In a moment or so the body came to the surface and was dragged from under the ice. It was recovered some two hundred feet down stream from the point where the accident occurred. Petty drew the body from the water and laid it on the beach. to the water's edge and gathered about the body. Petty was of the opinion it should be left until the coroner could view the re-mains, but undertaker Bennett, of Haughville, insisted the parents wanted it taken to his morgue. Petty finally agreed to allow the town marshal to make such dispoand he allowed the body to be removed. It was taken to Bennett's morgue, and afterknown it cannot be found. If the remains of the other boy, Otto Greenwaldt, are not recovered before noon to-day an inquest will probably be held this afternoon, and it is understood the funeral will be to-mor-

An attempt was made to secure a large seine for dragging the river early yesterday, but the boys' parents were too poor to buy one, and the men continued working with the lines until about 4 o'clock, when a sub-scription was raised among the large crowd assembled on the banks and the seine pur-chased from a fisherman, who refused to allow it to be used except it were pur-chased. Up to this time the east half of the river was still covered with ice, but as soon as arrangements were made to get the seine a large force went to work breaking up the ice. It was after dark before any work could be done, and up to a late hour the other body had not been recovered.

The fathers of the drowned lads put in the time yesterday going from the river to Mr. Horehammer's house and back again, vainly hoping to learn the bodies had been recovered. Mrs. Horehammer and Mrs. Greenwaldt are sisters. The latter was vis-iting at her sister's house Saturday when the drowning occurred, and remained there, hoping each minute to hear her boy's body had been recovered. After Johnnie Horehammer's body was recovered little Otto's cap was found and taken to the house. When the mother saw it her grief was pitiable. The bereaved father carried it with him all afternoon, and occasionally he would look at it and sorrowfully shake his head, while the tears trickled down his face. It was a very touching sight.

G. A. R. Commander-in-Chief Expresses His Views at St. Louis.

An Indianapolis party, consisting of President Irwin, of the Commercial Club; President Gordon, of the Board of Trade; Dan M. Ransdell, Col. Charles Kahlo, Commander-in-chief I. N. Walker, of the Grand Army; Gen. George F. McGinnis, Charles Walcott, A. P. Hendrickson and J. S. Dunlap has returned from St. Louis. While there several of the party engaged rooms for next June. They were entertained by members of the Merchants' Exchange and the Mercantile Club. The Post-Dispatch quotes Colonel Walker in the following in-

"Every man among us is a Republican, I believe. Owing to my position as the official head of the Grand Army, it would not be proper for me to take an active part in members of the Indiana delegation, who to secure quarters in this hotel, so they would be near the Indiana headquarters.
"Is it a Harrison boom? Well, I should hardly think so. General Harrison will not be a candidate, I am told, and our coming has no bearing on that. If he is a candidate he can have the complete and en-thusiastic support of the Indiana delegation, but I am informed he does not want his name to come before the convention. "'Will the Indiana delegation come here "No, that will not be necessary. Everybody over there wants General Harrison and the support and influence of the dele-gation will be given him. After him I don't know who will be their choice." STRONG CLUB PROMISED.

Manager Watkins Says Indianapolis Will Be Well Provided For.

Manager Watkins, of the Indianapolis baseball club, arrived in the city yesterday, and will be here several days on business connected with the club. In conversation with a reporter last night Mr. Watkins House, on South Illinois street, was arsaid: "The Journal's announcement this morning that Asa Stewart, of last season's Chicago club, would play in this city next season was somewhat premature. I admit that I should like to have him, and I have some reason to believe that he would like to play here, too, but no deal has been made with him yet. I don't know that I can get him, for I have had no talk with him about terms, and until we agree upon them it would be idle for me to talk to the Chicago management about his release. One thing you may rely upon, however, and that is that Indianapolis will have a stronger club next year than it did last. We will have practically all of the old players and a number of new ones have been secured to pick from in strengthening any weak spots that may appear. I have got eight pitchers signed or claimed, and the claims allowed, and two or three of the new ones are as promising as any young players I have ever seen.' Manager Watkins will be here for several days, after which he will return to home, coming back to this city about the last of January, to remain for the sea-

LONGED FOR FREEDOM

Confinement in a Convent Too Irksome for Nellie Leavell.

Nellie Leavell, a seventeen-year-old girl, escaped from the convent of the Good Shepherd early last evening. She were a loosefitting gingham dress and a pair of heavy shoes. An old shawl was taken by her, The girl ran from the convent and climbed a high brick wall around the grounds. She wandered around for several hours, and finally asked for lodging at a Doughertystreet house. The woman obtained from the girl her story, and then brought her to police headquarters, where she was taken in charge by Matron Buchanan. The girl says she was not mistreated in the convent, but she became tired of the work and the confinement. Being nearly eighteen years of age, she felt a desire for liberty. She went to the convent of her own accord. Two years ago she walked here from Marion to escape a farmer who had adopted her. At that time the girl told a sad story, which was afterward found to be partially untrue. She said then that she wanted to learn something beside hard work, for she had opportunity to obtain an education Sedroom Sets in all woods-Wm. L. FOUND DEAD IN BED.

William Aebker Dies Suddenly After a Protracted Spree.

Coroner Castor was notified that William Aebker, an old man, living at 624 East Vermont street, was found dead in his bed yesterday morning. The coroner viewed the remains and questioned members of the family. It seems that Aebker has been drinkng quite heavily for the last few days and was considerably under the influence of iquor when he retired Saturday night. Yesterday morning he falled to arise at his usual hour, and, upon entering the room, members of the family found he was dead. Coroner Castor is uncertain whether the man died from alcoholism, heart failure or apoplexy, but is inclined to think it is due to the first named cause. He will hold an inquest to-day.

SERIOUS RESULT OF WHAT SEEMED A SLIGHT ACCIDENT.

Frank Ball Strikes His Head Against a Telephone Pole-Concussion of the Brain Results.

Frank Ball, living with his parents at 10% Oliver avenue, West Indianapolis, had a very serious accident about 5 o'clock yesterday evening. During the afternoon he was visiting friends on the opposite side of the street from his father's home. When crossing the street on his way home his heel got caught between two flagstones and he fell backwards, striking the back of Several hundred people came crowding down his head against a telephone pole. He walked house, No. 100 Fremont avenue, Coroner in and said "Somebody is sick." Without he went home. His father was nursing one of the younger children and talked to him strangely. All at once he started to his feet suddenly, clasped his hands be-hind his head and fell to the floor, face downward. He was immediately seized with a convulsion that lasted some time. His father was anable to hold him and neigh-bors were sent for. Dr. Smith was called in and did what he could to relieve his suffering, but it was three hours before he became quiet. The Doctor was unable to make an accurate diagnosis of the case last night, but seemed to think the young man was suffering from concussion of the brain. About 10 o'clock he was somewhat better and had regained consciousness. In addition to the trouble in his head he complained of pains in his ankles and back. The young man is a printer employed by Baker & Thornton. He is twenty-five Two weeks ago one of the elder Mr. Ball's ittle girls was run down by a crowd of boys driving a spring wagon. She was on her way home from school at the time. She was very seriously injured. Her father things the boys drove over her intentionally and expects to have an investigation made. Elmer Thorpe and Gordon Bennett are said to have been two of the party. Mr. Ball says some one is responsible for the accidents and he intends to have legal redress. It seems the flagstone crossings where his son fell last night were recentwhile the tears trickled down his face. It was a very touching sight.

COL. I. N. WALKER INTERVIEWED.

SKATERS WERE MANY

THE CANAL SERVED AS A PLEASURE GROUND YESTERDAY.

Gamblers and Shell Workers Held High Carnival, While the Police

Prevented Horse Speeding.

Skating on the canal was a very popular amusement yesterday, but it would have been more popular, in all probability, had not the ice commenced to thaw, making the surface soft. During the morning hundreds of people were along the canal, and they had their skates on. During the afternoon politics. There are politicians among us, the crowd was much larger, but many, after an hour's exercise, withdrew. The will represent the State at the convention boys were not discouraged by the thaw. to be held here next June. They came here All kinds and sorts of people had on their skates. There were many very nice people, and there were some not quite so nice. There were white people and colored people, and clean and well-dressed boys and dirty and ragged boys. Those people who were not quite so nice found pleasure in watching the games which several shoestring gamblers were operating along the bank, unmolested by any horrid policeman. Many mules, Blair & Baker selling 14,208 horses of the boys found pleasure in the anticipation with which they placed small change on the result of the dice or the location of a ball under a shell, but these boys found disappointment in the result of the throwing and the failure to locate the deceptive little ball under the shell.

All kinds of skates were observed on the canal. There were quite a number of "short skates," most of whom had an interest in the operation of the shoestring gamblers. Small boys were seen who wore the best- this class of work. modeled skates, which probably cost from $1 to $2, reminding old-timers of the time when the same skates cost $6 or $7. Very few of the boys wore the old "pot metals" which were so popular in former years with persons suffering from a deficit in the gold reserve. There were a few old skaters who think no skate is fit to wear | their goods. without it has a wooden top and straps, and they puffed in their efforts to do the "figure 8" and the "spread eagle" as in Broad Cut was the most popular point on the canal, but the ice was the poorest there of any place. The surface was covered with an inch of scraped ice, which made ankles feel sick after plowing through it for a time. Those who fell became moist, for the scraped ice had melted in many places, making a sort of a mushy coating for the more solid ice underneath. Several thrifty "hot-wiener" dealers had stands along the canal, where skaters could buy hot lunches of sausages, rye bread and horse radish. The shoestring gamblers had no stands, but they operated along the canal banks, with no attempt at secrecy and no fear of the police. Craps was the favorite game. Colored men did most of the manipulating, but there were "cappers' and "pluggers" who were white and who led the men and boys on to the play. Standing near Brighton Beach five games could be counted at one time during the afternoon. Probably twelve or afteen boys and men stood around each game. The operators of the shell games were a little more careful than those who manipulated the

The Brighton Beach road house seemed to hold some attraction for many. No policeman could be seen in or around the place. There was nothing to prevent the violation of the saloon law.

A Youthful Tramp.

Charles Butcher, seventeen years old who says his home is any place he can find work, was arrested for loitering yesterday. He said he had been in town since Wednesday and that he came here from Ohio, His father and mother, according to his statements, separated five years ago, since which time he has been tramping the country. His parents lived in Washington, O. There was just a suspicion of sadness as he said he knew nothing as to their whereabouts or whether they are alive or dead. He said he was with a circus last summer, but he has been tramping since the show disbanded in Missouri. The boy is an attractive-looking little fellow, with freckled face and honest eyes. There was something rather girlish in his looks and he was questioned closely on that point, but insisted he was a boy. He had a single dime in one of his pockets.

INDIANAPOLIS COMING TO FRONT AS A CENTER.

Many Eastern Buyers Depend Almost Entirely on This City as a Market -Industrial Notes.

The present bids fair to be best years with the Indianapolis stock yards, and unquestionably more hogs will be handled on this market than ever before. At no time in the history of the yards have they stood as prominent as being well managed, nor has the stock ever been better cared for. Regarding prices on the Indianapolis market thus far this season, better figures have been realized than on any other Western market. This will be borne out by comparisons of daily prices. There are now on this market twelve firms that buy on orders and fourteen firms of wideawake commission men. Besides these firms that handle so much business, the home packing houses require fully 150,000 hogs for their business annually. Indianapolis as a beef packing point is beginning to assume some importance, Kingan & Co. alone killing fifty to sixty head of cattle a day. Then the three abattoirs kill as many or more daily. Some of the largest packing houses in the East depend for their supply of cattle and hogs on the Indianapolis market. One packing and provision company at East Cambridge, Mass., has a standing order for ten to twenty doubledeck carloads of hogs daily. Sperry & Barnes and White & Perry, both of New Haven, Conn., are large buyers on this market. Halstedt & Co. and G. B. Bartlett & Co., both at Coummunipaw, N. J., buy largely on this market. M. Goldsmith and and Nelson & Morris both buy for the New York and Boston markets on the Indianapolis market. The Provision Company, of springfield, Mass., is a liberal buyer here, and so are Swartz, Child & Co., both for Boston and New York. A considerable per cent, of this business is exported. The United States continues to hold its for-eign live stock trade very well, despite the low prices that have been paid for cattle in the United Kingdom of late. The Lonmonths ending with October. There were received from the United States during October 24,998 cattle and 45,662 sheep, and from Canada 12,805 cattle and 49,451 sheep out of a total of 41,337 cattle and 171,307 sheep. For the ten months from the United States, 225,684 cattle and 367,554 sheep, and Canada, 83,791 cattle and 142,869 sheep, out of a total of 343,514 cattle and 856,176 sheep.

In Good Shape for Business. The Indiana Car and Foundry Company last week completed its new foundry, which took the place of the one burned. It is a much larger building than that destroyed, and is built practically fire proof. The new building is 75 feet wide and 280 feet long, and provided with all the modern improvements for foundries in the way of cranes, ladles and other facilities for doing the work economically and expeditiously. The company does a large amount of repair work for fast freight lines. The works have the contract to furnish the iron cast-

The Indianapolis cabinet works are getting on their feet well again. They now have a large number of men employed and are receiving more orders than they can readily ful. The works have commenced turning out a higher grade of desks for banks and offices. The confectioners are having one of their busiest seasons. Daggett & Co. are manufacturing fifteen thousand pounds daily of hard-boiled candies and seven thousand pounds of soft fancy candies and on Thursday morning last were 85,000 pounds behind their orders. Wysong & Co., who manufacture the highest grades of candies, are very busy, employing a larger force than in any former year.

The Union Co-operative Laundry, which is a woman's institution, is just closing one of its most successful years. A few years ago a dozen laundry girls organzed a company, put the funds they had together and established a laundry and in three years had a plant worth $4,000 established and paid for. Since then the laundry has been steadily growing as an industry until now the owners have leased additional room and are to put in $2,000 worth of new machinery, considerably increasing the capacity of the plant.
